Travelling round Australia

Why not travel round Australia the cheap way? Youth hostelling is an excellent way of seeing the country without spending too much, and the Australian Youth Hostels Association offers you safe and low cost accommodation with hostels just about everywhere in Australia. You can go from a simple country hostel in the middle of nowhere to a modern new hostel right on the beach. You'll find hostels in buildings that used to be farms, schools and even hotels. There are more than 150 in all, located in cities, the country and places of historical importance. Youth hostels are open for 24 hours a day. They all have kitchens where you can cook your meals, and common rooms where you'll meet travellers from all over the world. Blankets and pillows are provided and you can either bring your own sheets or hire them at the hostel. Overnight fees range from $10 to $24 per person for shared rooms and twin, double and family rooms are also available.

Ballarat

Youth hostels today are very different from the rather uncomfortable hostels of some years ago. In Ballarat, for example, a hostel has been opened in the old town where once people use to dig for gold. The accommodation offers large comfortable rooms at an affordable price. The rooms are suitable for individuals, families and groups, sleeping four to ten people with shared bathroom facilities for both men and women. You are also provided with blankets, limited cooking facilities and heating.

Canberra

Canberra's youth hostel is perfectly situated and the staff have all the latest information about what's on in town to make sure you have a great stay. It is a warm and friendly hostel in a peaceful country setting, with first-rate facilities including kitchens, laundry and plenty of parking. It was described in the Lonely Planet Guide as "the second most popular youth hostel world-wide".

Undara National Park

Undara National Park contains Undara's Tent Village which has accommodation in tents as well as kitchens where you can cook your own food and a dining area with views over the countryside. There's also the Park's Hostel, which has low-cost shared rooms together with a restaurant, swimming pool, laundry, gift shop and hot and cold showers.

Barossa Valley

The Barossa Valley Hostel is an old farmhouse, now fully modernised. It has a kitchen with electric oven, microwave and refrigerator. The dining area looks out over the beautiful scenery and there are comfortable living areas with heating.
